

Arkansas is host today to the president of the United States. Regardless of politics the man who holds the chief executive's chair takes the power and prestige of the United States with him wherever he goes. That's why there is a great outpouring of citizens today for Little Rock, where Harry S. Truman arrives this afternoon for a 24-hour visit.

What the presidency holds for the average American isn't more fascinating. It is a feeling of awe when for 24 hours the seat of American government is transferred from distant Washington to our own Arkansas. "My office is where I hang my hat," you might imagine the president as saying.

Not only does this presidential visit focus national and world attention on Arkansas this weekend, but the very purpose of the 1,000-mile journey by air helps endear Harry Truman to his fellow American no matter how much we equate and fight over domestic questions.

In Little Rock this week-end is being held the annual reunion of the 35th Division, famed military unit which dates back to the Mexican war of 1846, and in which Harry Truman served as an artillery officer in World War I.

The president never misses a reunion of the 35th, and if he does lug a huge government airplane and a lot of high officials clear across the country just for this personal jamboree, why, it should be remembered that he was faithful to the 35th Division before he became president — and no office is so high that it has the right to compel a man to forget the background and associates of his youth.

The majority of able-bodied men of America today are veterans of either World War I or II, and all the millions of them will think more kindly of Harry S. Truman today as he tries for 24 hours to forget his past and relives in memory the time when he was a soldier overseas himself.

Salvation Army Drive Plans Being Made

Plans are going forward in a very fine way toward the launching of the Salvation Army Campaign for $2,400 in Hope and Hempstead county according to Guy E. Bayse, chairman of the local committee.

The captains of the various divisions of workers have been selected and have been obtaining their work from the various Civic clubs and the divisions of workers will be named for the various clubs.

A meeting of the captains of the various divisions will meet tonight at the Hotel Barlow at 7:30 o'clock to map definite plans for the work of their workers, and a kick-off meeting will be held for all workers on Monday night June 13 at 7:30 at which time each captain will place in the hands of his or her workers the material needed for their work. Mr. Bayse said that it is important for every worker that possibly can to attend this meeting as information pertaining to the work that has been done during the past year and their information will be given the workers that will be helpful in their work on the campaign.

The response to the letter appeal which was sent out early this week is very good according to Roy Anderson, the treasurer of the local committee to whom donations are being made by those wishing to donate to The Salvation Army drive by mail. Checks and money orders should be made payable to The Salvation Army.

The captains of the various divisions Mr. Bayse said are Claude Tuller for the Rotary division, Hervey Holt the Kiwanis division, Foy Hammons the Lions division, Buddy Evans Captain for the American Legion division, Ollis Burns will be captain of the Junior Chamber of Commerce division. Mrs. Foy Hammons, the B & P Division and Mrs. Inez Staats will be the Captain of the Beta Sigma Phi Division. Mr. Bayse states that he is most anxious that all these captains and their workers be present at the Captains meeting tonight.

Mr. Bayse also wished to call attention to the fact that a very fine radio program will be conducted on Saturday morning at 10:45 and urges the public to tune in to Radio Station KXAR at that time to hear this interesting Salvation Army program.

Replying to charges of the California anti-American activities committee that he was typical of the group which follows the Communist line, the comedian from Brooklyn said:

"Reports have just reached me of the completely absurd and unfounded charges made against me by the Tenney committee. "Not only have I never been a Communist, a Communist sympathizer or a Communist applier but I am in direct opposition to the policies of the Communist party."

Here's How

Byron Chastain, left, and James Buddy Chesser, right, oblige authorities by climbing into ice-box in which three children were found suffocated in Walnut Ridge, Ark. According to the prosecution James Buddy Chesser admitted to authorities that he shut his three playmates in the icebox during a game of hide-and-seek then left them to suffocate when he couldn't get the door open.

President Truman to Arrive in Little Rock Today for Reunion With Old Buddies

Little Rock Is All Agog Over Truman's Visit

Little Rock, June 10 — (UP)—Little Rock was in a festive spirit today as it awaited the arrival at 8 p. m. (CST) of President Truman to attend the annual reunion of the 35th division.

All indications pointed to a celebration of "T" day that would surpass even the gala reception tendered the late President Roosevelt here exactly 13 years ago today.

If a census were taken of this city at this time as information pertaining to the work that has been done during the past year and their information will be given the workers that will be helpful in their work on the campaign.

Federal Jury Indicts Tucker, Associates

Chicago, June 10 —(P)—Preston T. Tucker and seven associates, one an ex-convict, were indicted on federal charges today as a result of their promotion of an unmarketed rear-engine automobile.

They were accused of mail fraud, violation of securities and exchange commission regulations and conspiracy.

A 31-count indictment was returned before federal Judge John P. Barnes by a grand jury which spent 12 weeks since Feb. 12 investigating affairs of Tucker and his corporation.

Maximum possible penalties for conviction under the indictment would amount to 155 years imprisonment and $60,000 in fines for each of the eight defendants.

The counts are 25 of mail fraud, five of violating regulations of the securities and exchange commission and one of conspiracy.

Other defendants with the 46-year-old president and director of the Tucker corporation are:

Harold A. Karsten, 58, alias Abraham Karatz, North Hollywood, Calif., former Minneapolis lawyer; Floyd D. Cerf, 60, Chicago, former publisher of the Chicago Tribune; and a pre-inaugural breakfast last Jan. 20. He also wore in his lapel a 35th division gold button.

The president told reporters he would use the ebony cane in a pre-breakfast walk in Little Rock tomorrow around 6 a. m. He plans to take up breakfast with his former battery mates.

Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, the president's physician, and Joseph P. Major, deputy war assets administrator, were added to the president's party for the trip.

The president worked last night to complete an address to be delivered at 2:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) Saturday, highlighting the observance with the buddies with whom he served in France.

With Secretary of State Acheson working at Paris on the German problem and the senate soon to take up the North Atlantic pact, the prospects for peace are expected to have heavy emphasis in the talk.

Mr. Truman's takeoff in the "Independence," the White House DC 6, was timed at 12:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) for the three-day trip to Little Rock, Ark.

He will return to Washington immediately after Saturday's talk.

Making the trip with the president are Secretaries Charles G. Ross and Matthew J. Connolly; John R. Steinhilber, assistant to the president; Budget Director Frank Pace, Jr.; and the president's three aides, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan of the army, Rear Admiral Robert D. Dennison of the navy, and Brig. Gen. Robert B. Landry of the air force.

On one thing, the president and his associates agreed: They want an end to the Taft-Hartley provision for court orders to stop national emergency strikes.

As much as Lewis hates the whole Taft-Hartley law, however, his strategy in calling a walkout during debate on the law's repeal has dismayed some of the lawmakers who are for repeal. Like Lewis, it has encouraged T-H friends who say that the timing is bound to help their effort to preserve much of the law.

The administration repealer, for which Mr. Truman expressed continued support, does not authorize either injunctions or government seizure of plants to delay strikes in vital industries.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) continued to express optimism that the senate, before it gets through with the debate — maybe two weeks from now — will substitute a bill of a Republican bill for the whole administration measure. This Taft bill would retain many important Taft-Hartley features. He is counting on a block of Southern Democratic votes to help this.

Special study days for 4-H club members from the 20 counties in Southwestern Arkansas, will be held here on June 29 and 30. The morning tour of the Station will be an added attraction for the adult day. An added attraction will be a fish and wildlife exhibit, under the direction of D. W. Parker, assistant secretary, Arkansas Game and Fish Commission.

The program was unfolded yesterday as the AMA's house of delegates — policymaking body of the organization — adopted a set of 20 principles for lay-sponsored plans seeking AMA approval.

Dr. James R. McVay of Kansas City, chairman of the AMA's council on medical service, said the action was "a positive, decisive, progressive step" toward the expansion of voluntary health insurance.

Medical care plans now operating in 43 states, exclusive of 92 sponsored by medical societies. He said his council has met with leaders of lay groups in the past two weeks in an effort to formulate a work agreement between the AMA and the existing voluntary health plans.

The veteran chairman of the senate committee on the Judiciary, today accused Hoffman of trying to bully the committee into not cutting European recovery funds.

Hoffman coldly denied he tried to put any "pressure" on the committee or that his talk of resignation was a "threat."

Hoffman had told reporters yesterday he would resign if he reached the point where he no longer thought he could direct the recovery program successfully.

He said he did not think it could be done with less than the $3,668,470,000 that ECA is asking for the first ten and one-half months of the next fiscal year.

McKellar brought up the subject of today's hearing on the ECA appropriation, saying:

"Other than giving away other people's money, I wonder what you are doing in Europe. I think it would be a very good thing if you did resign."

Senators said they will press for a cut in the recovery program.

$1000 Reward to Finder of Missing Plane

A reward of $1,000 to person or persons finding a plane, missing since May 29, has been posted by relatives and friends of the two occupants in Stephensonville and Merkel, Texas.

The reward says not only must the plane be located but also its two passengers, T. C. Elkins, 48, and his pilot-nephew, Ben Ferguson, 27, residents of the two Texas towns. The pair took off in a light plane from Hot Springs early Sunday, May 29.

The reward announcement was made today by R. M. Ferguson, father of the missing pilot, Mr. Ferguson, talking from the office Sheriff Claude Sutton, said they believed the plane was down somewhere in a huge circle, extending from Hot Springs to Magnolia, Tex., and possibly as far north as Menard.

Meanwhile the search continued in this section, centering mainly in the Little and Red River bottoms. Torrential rains in this section last night will curb the search, considerably but it will be continued until the plane and men are found, officials said.

If anyone finds the plane or men they are asked first to contact Gene Elkins, son of T. C. Elkins, at Broadway Hotel, Prescott, Ark.

Woman May Be Red Agent, Papers Reveal

Washington, June 10 — (AP) — Excerpts from a secret FBI report introduced today in the Judith Coplon espionage trial said that a woman who "may be a Russian espionage agent" had contacts in high places in Washington.

The report centered chiefly on Irina (Fraida) Eltmovna Aleksander, also known as Bethel Kossimir Aleksander.

"It stressed frequent meetings reportedly held at the home of a friend of Irina's, by groups of army officers, all carrying brief cases."

The summary, from a data slip found in Miss Coplon's purse when she was arrested in New York March 4 with Valentine A. Gubitchev, a Russian, was put into the evidence.

"It was introduced shortly after Harold L. Ickes, former secretary of the interior, showed up under defense subpoena but was excused until later."

Ickes said he didn't know "a damned thing" that would shed light on the case. The defense said it wanted him for questioning about whether FBI report. In the former interior department, worker was formerly a confidential FBI informant as a reported "contact" for the Russian embassy.

The full report on Mrs. Aleksander still was to be read to the jury. The first section of the summary dated May 29, 1940 was signed by a New York FBI agent named Murphy, said:

"This report predicted on info received from T-1 (an informant) that subjects (especially Irina) were extremely friendly with officials of Russian consulate, NYC. On 9-29-45 Irina conferred with Pavel Mikhailov, a consulate, stating that she wanted him to know that she was always ready to help him in any way she could and in whatever way he might require."

Claims Atomic Scientist Is Red Recruiter

Washington, June 10 — (AP) — Robert Davis, a wartime employee of a west coast atomic laboratory testified today he was recruited into the Communist party by an atomic scientist, Giovanni Rossi Lomanitz.

"Davis, now of New York, was a witness before the house un-American activities committee. He said he attended perhaps two or three Communist meetings while he worked in the radiation laboratory at the University of California at Berkeley. He said Lomanitz attended meetings with him."

Lomanitz himself, who was also called as a witness, had refused, on grounds he might incriminate himself, to say whether he ever was a Communist or ever tried to get anyone into the Communist party.

"Lomanitz in his statement under no conditions have I been allowed to the United States government or given any classified information to anyone. He said that he did not think membership in the Communist party necessary would mean that anyone was a spy."

The committee got to Lomanitz and Davis after talk of prosecuting Philip O. Kenney who had preceded them to its witness chair. Sen. Nixon (R-Calif.) said the committee urged that Kenney be prosecuted for trying to leave the country without a passport on the Polish liner, Batory.

McKellar

And even if it means Hoffman's resignation.

Hoffman tried to get in an answer several times but McKellar shouted him down.

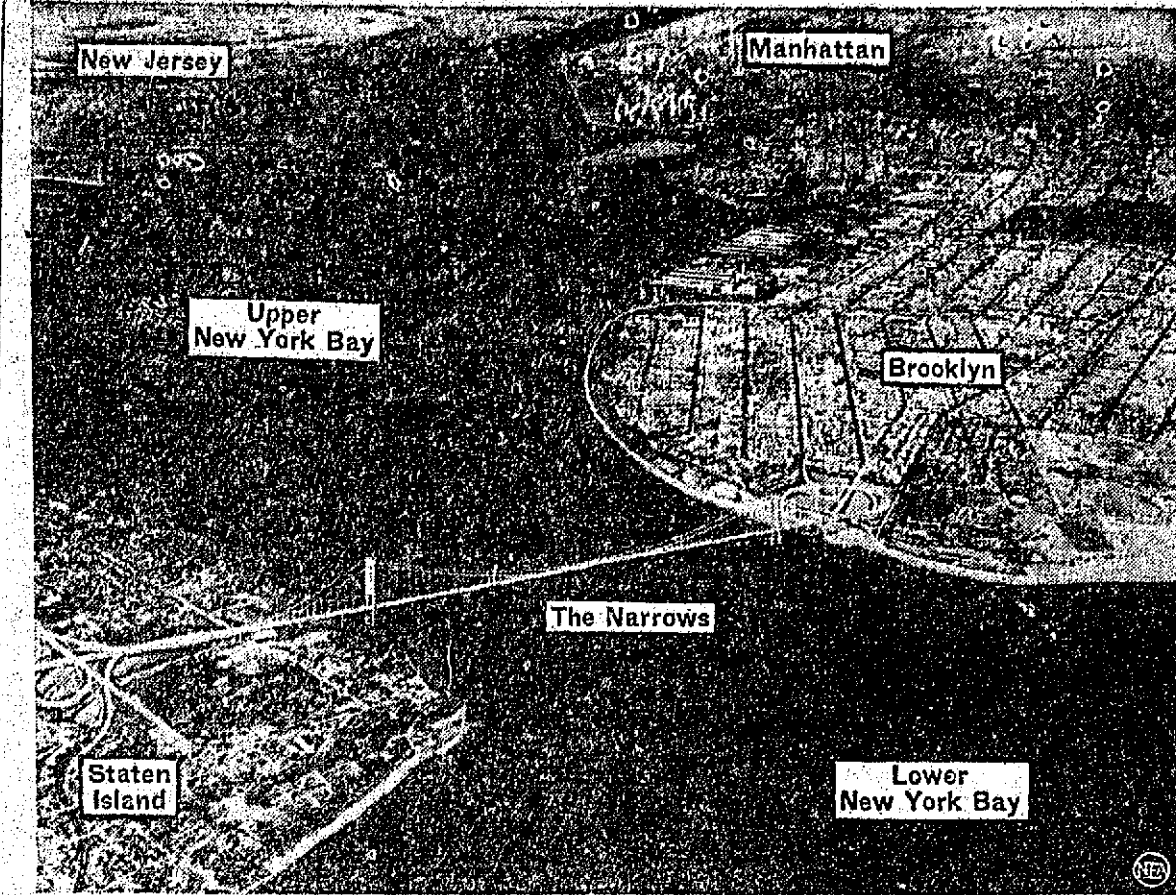

Senator Ferguson (R Mich.) said he did not consider Hoffman's remarks any threat and did not think the ECA chief had intended them as such.

"Don't you think," Ferguson said, "it is a good thing to have people in the government who are willing and able to resign if they don't think they can do a good job?"

Hoffman should be commended. There are too many who say when they know they can't do a job, they don't resign."

McKellar retorted: "I did take it as a threat," and then he turned on Hoffman again.

"You have undertaken to do it

Ferguson interrupted again: "I think it would be a great calamity."

McKellar: "Well, every man is entitled to his own opinion."

Hoffman finally got in a word. "Nothing I said implied any threat."

Again McKellar cut him off. "Why, you had a lobbyist come to my hotel this morning and he tried to lobby with me. He said you had offered him a job in Korea. I ordered him out of my room. He was trying to show me how right you are and how wrong I am."

Hoffman said quietly: "That is an absolute falsehood."

He said a man he did not know "from Adam's off ox" approached him this morning and tried to tell him about a conversation "with a senator."

"I offered no job," Hoffman said. He said he had no "false notions" about himself and the job he is doing. "I said I would administer the program to the best of my ability. I said if I came to the conclusion I could not administer the program successfully then I would resign."

And then Hoffman said sharply:

Allies Pressing for Settlement of Rail Strike

By The Associated Press

Western power representatives in Berlin pressed the Russians today for weekend talks to solve the Berlin rail strike. The Paris foreign ministers conference has set a Monday deadline for settlement.

If the strike is not settled by then it goes before the Paris conference. Western representatives have told the Russians they will not sign an East-West trade pact until the strike is settled. The West says it is up to Russia to end the strike because the Russians control the rail system.

The strike has stymied rail shipment of supplies into Berlin almost from the day the Soviet blockade of the city was lifted on May 12. The airlift, trucks and barges still are bringing in supplies.

In Paris, weary foreign ministers tried to salvage some accords from their nearly three-week old conference. So far it has been marked by the same old differences between Russia and the West on the future of Germany.

Western officials have said the ministers may propose the formation of a four-power commission to continue studying German peace treaty prospects. If the present conference breaks up without any practical accomplishments.

This commission would lay the groundwork for another four-power foreign ministers conference later. Also on the agenda of the present conference is the problem of concluding an Austrian peace treaty. Russia and the Western nations are probably near agreement on Austria. But none of the powers is keen on concluding the Austrian treaty and withdrawing troops while the problem of neighboring Germany is so explosive.

There were a few wet spots early today. Showers and thunderstorms were reported in parts of Arkansas, northern Mississippi, the western portions of Kentucky and Tennessee, Oklahoma, southern Kansas and southern Missouri. The heaviest fall was nearly an inch at Oklahoma City.

One County Judge Invites Another

Little Rock, June 10 — (UP) — One county judge invited another to visit his court today.

Pulaski county Judge L. A. Mashburn said he wrote this letter to President Harry Truman:

"You have relinquished the duties of county judge of Jackson county, Mo., for the more exacting duties of chief executive of the greatest nation on earth. I am wondering if there might not remain in your heart a certain nostalgia for the former scenes which might, in some measure, be allayed by the opportunity to sit in on a session of the county court."

Explaining his note as a letter from "one Southern Baptist to another," Mashburn then invited the president to sit with him at any time during Mr. Truman's two-day visit to Little Rock.

Wife Upholds Testimony of Chambers

New York, June 1 — (P) — Mrs. Whittaker Chambers, wife of the key government witness in the perjury trial of Alger Hiss, testified today that she and her husband saw Hiss after Jan. 1, 1937.

Her testimony corroborated that of her husband who contends that the former state department official turned over secret government papers to him in 1937 and 1938 for passage to a Red spy ring.

Hiss was indicted by a grand jury which charged that he lied when he denied handing the papers to Chambers or having seen the self-confessed Red spy courier after Jan. 1, 1937.

Mrs. Chambers was the 27th prosecution witness to take the stand.

Under questioning she related that she and her husband attended a New Year's eve party at the Hiss home on Volta place in Washington on Dec. 31, 1937.

Earlier, the witness described the friendship between the Chambers and Hiss and his wife, Patricia. The friendship, she said, included lunches and dinner together, and walks in the park with Mrs. Hiss and Mrs. Chambers' infant daughter.

Mrs. Hiss blinked occasionally during Mrs. Chambers' recital of the Chambers-Hiss family relationship. Hiss made notes at intervals on the back of an envelope.

Mrs. Chambers also said she saw the Hisses at another time in 1937. That instance, she related, was when the Hisses attended a wedding anniversary celebration given by the Chambers in December, 1937.

Arkansas proportionate representation with Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska on the Association's executive committee.

This action will give Arkansas three permanent members on that committee. The executive committee also elected Lucien Abraham of Batesville, Ark., a veteran of the 153rd infantry regiment to fill a vacancy on the committee. He will serve until the new executive committee meets following election of officers this afternoon. But committee members indicated it is likely he will be elected to the new committee.

hat, Mrs. Chambers was called to the stand as the government strove to bolster its second charge of perjury against Hiss.

This second and last charge is based on Hiss' denial before a federal grand jury that he saw Chambers after Jan. 1, 1937, until the current espionage probe started.

Chambers, self-styled former courier for a prewar Soviet spy ring, ended seven days on the witness stand in federal court yesterday and the government then called 17 witnesses to support some major points in his accusations against Hiss.

Most of their testimony concerned the first count in the perjury indictment — based on Hiss' denial to the grand jury that he gave Chambers secret government data to be passed on to the alleged spy ring.

PRICES AND PRODUCTION ON DOWNGRADE—These newscharts show how industrial production and prices declined in the first quarter of 1949, according to current economic reports issued by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System. Production is down from 195 per cent last November to an estimated 179 for April. The decline has been general, since activity has decreased in 13 of 19 industry groups. In prices, basic commodities dropped the most, while consumer prices show only slight reduction. Most significant decline this year has been in metal markets, with steel scrap and non-ferrous metals scrap down 40 to 50 per cent. The price support program for many farm products has prevented more marked declines in that field.

Ex-Commander Poll Tax Law Working Way Up Again
Culver City, Calif., June 10 — (AP) — A one time commander in chief of the Lithuanian army goes to work today assembling airplane hydraulic valves in a little back shop here.

But Gen. Stasys Rastikis says he is "happy as a bird" behind a work bench at the Hartwell Aviation Co.

The 53-year-old general starts work at the bottom less than a month after he and his wife, Helen Marie, 46, arrived in New York as displaced persons. They were sick and exhausted after nine years of fighting, hiding, running and imprisonment at the hands of the Russians and Germans.

Underground reports say that one of their three daughters is "somewhere" in Siberia, also whisked away. She, too, has come no word. Mrs. Rastikis, arrested with the girls, was imprisoned but eventually released to rejoin her husband in the Lithuanian underground.

How the general came to work here is a story in itself. Clark, owner, met the Rev. Joseph C. Hartwell, the aviation company chief, president of the United Lithuanian Relief in America, at Lake Arrowhead, Calif. Father Concius asked Hartwell if he could use a good man. Hartwell said "sure" and the "good man" turned out to be Gen. Rastikis.

Through an interpreter the general says he is pleasantly impressed with America except for the automobiles — "there are so many of them it is frightening."

As for war with Russia, he says "it is inevitable," but has been delayed by Russian respect for the atom bomb and completion of a next year.

The general began his military career as a rear rank private in the Czarist army.

By 1935 he had risen to general of the Lithuanian army but in 1940 the Russian Communists thundered over his land again. Because of his determined loyalty to Lithuania, demands for peace, he was read out of the army and stripped of rank.

He hid in the mountains until June 22, 1941, when Hitler Germany's military machine rolled over Lithuania. Then he joined the Lithuanian underground and fought both Germans and Communists.

Rastikis and his wife reached the U. S. section of occupied Germany in 1944. Friends in this country arranged for his entry in the D. P. quota.

A preacher dialed long distance to call a clergyman friend of his in a distance town.

"Do you want to place a station-to-station call?" asked the operator.

"No," came the answer, "parson to parson."

"You told me once about men, and women like Mollie," Beas said thoughtfully. "You told me about your plan of campaign. Are congratulations in order?"

Mabel Jones smiled. "Right now I don't think he cares much for any women. He did ask me to stay on the island while he went for supplies."

"Are you going to?"

"Maybe you've forgotten why the four of us came in the first place? I haven't. There's nothing on the mainland I want, nothing I can't have here. But whether I stay or not depends on you."

"On me?" Beas asked in surprise. "Yes, you've got something on your mind. You weren't playing with the funicular for the fun of it. You don't think Lilly Warren killed herself?"

"Do you think she did?"

"I don't know much about her," Mabel replied, "but I wouldn't have thought she'd be the kind to hurt herself."

"She was drinking, Beas said thoughtfully, and Harding had told her he wouldn't choose her for his wife."

"A reason, good or not. Why didn't it convince you?"

"Why should she get in the funicular car to kill herself? Why wasn't there more blood?"

"You think she was shot somewhere else and put in the car?"

"I don't know. And I really don't know how much blood there should be. But I well in all the books I have read about murders, there's always a point made about how much blood there is. So I thought about it and I figured she might have been shot in the tunnel under the main house, and her body sent down your way to be buried in the cave. A mysterious disappearance."

Mabel Jones smiled. "People with your reading and imagination, you go out of your way to hunt up trouble for yourselves."

"Maybe. But you see what it means if it was done like that."

"Oh I see. Anyone of us could have done it. If we'd had the thoughtfully. You told me about your plan of campaign. Are congratulations in order?"

DOROTHY DIX Couldn't Take It

Dear Miss Dix: The reason my marriage went on the rocks was because my wife was such a slovenly housekeeper. I would come home at night to find the beds unmade, the floors cluttered, my wife slopping around in the kitchen in her gown, preparing a dinner that wasn't fit to eat.

I begged her to try to be more tidy, but she just laughed and said if I didn't like it, I knew what I could do. She was a perfectly healthy woman and there was no reason why we had to live in such positive fifth. Finally I got so disgusted I just couldn't take it any more, so I left. Now I live in one room, but it is CLEAN. At times I may be lonely, but I prefer loneliness to DIRT.

GEORGE H. Answer: I hope every bride who reads this letter will take its warning to heart, for of all faults that a wife can have, the worst from her husband's point of view, is for her to be a slovenly housekeeper. Without doubt an untidy home has sent more men to roaming and driven more men to drink than all other causes combined. For no man can take any pleasure in looking at a wife who looks as if she needed to be run through a washing machine, nor can he want to come back at night to a home that looks as if it had just been struck by a cyclone. To keep a man sitting by his own hearth and make him a fireside companion, you have to make your home attractively clean.

A slovenly-kept house is no home. It is a place from which husbands and children flee as fast as they can go. A real home, the kind a home, which there is love and harmony in it, in which children grow up into being fine men and women, is always one in which there is cleanliness and order and good cooking. And this is true whether the house be a cheap cottage or a palace.

Certainly cleanliness is next to godliness in marriage. Soap and water will do more to hold a husband's love than French perfume, and the best defense that a woman can use in defending her home is a mop. As long as she can keep busy with that she can keep the Other Woman out.

Dear Miss Dix: Do you think a man should keep old love letters? I have broken off my engagement with my fiancée but I don't know whether to return her letters or burn them. What is your advice?

MRS. X. Answer: Old love letters are just about as safe to have around the house as an unexploded bomb. If you tried in every way to make your wife come across a lot of old love letters, you will find yourself in a pretty mess and you will have some tall explaining to do.

Besides, to keep a girl's letters is most unfair to her. Every woman when she dips her pen in ink takes leave of prudence and writes things that she would never dream of saying to a man, merely because it makes her feel poetic and romantic. A real gentleman, when an engagement is broken, always sends a girl's love letters back to her so that she can destroy the evidences of her folly.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My mother died three years ago and since that time I have kept house for my father. All was well for two years, but this past year nothing seems to please him, although I have tried in every way to make our home happy and comfortable. He has gotten so that he gives me hardly any money to run the house on and he is grouchy if I ask him if I can buy a new hat or dress once in a while. I wonder if I have an idea that he is thinking about getting married again. He has been going steadily with a neighbor for the last six months. Do you think this could be the reason for the change in his attitude toward me? What shall I do?

A DAUGHTER. Answer: Evidently your father is trying to freeze you out so that he can marry your neighbor, who probably objects to having you in the house. Why don't you ask him if he will give you enough money to fit yourself to become a self-sufficient woman? Then get a job and live on your own.

Don't try to persuade your father not to marry. He will do it anyway, and you will really be far better off and happier earning your own living and being independent. Now is the time to secure your future. Don't wait until you get too old to learn a new trade and make a fresh start in life.

Admits Slaying Divorcee and Child

Philadelphia, June 10 — (UP)—A 29-year-old man today confessed clubbing an attractive divorcee and her nine-year-old son to death with a baseball bat after a drinking party in the woman's apartment, police said.

Detectives quoted Robert Gemberling, father of a young son, as saying he first intended to kill his wife, but changed his mind and battered Mrs. Jean Mills, 32, and her nine-year-old son Michael Lurowski to death as they lay sleeping.

The battered body of the boy was found last night beside the unconscious form of his mother on a bloodstained bed in their gas-filled apartment. Mrs. Mills died this morning in Hahnemann hospital following an emergency operation.

The brutality of the slaying was evidenced by the blood which splattered the four walls, and the ceiling of the apartment.

Police said Gemberling told them that Mrs. Mills was trying to "break up" his home. He said he was drinking with her and another woman until four o'clock yesterday morning when he left to go home to his wife.

Gemberling was quoted as saying he thought of killing his wife while walking home, but that when he arrived he changed his mind and returned to Mrs. Mills' apartment.

He found Mrs. Mills and her son sleeping in the bed. He told police he picked up the boy's baseball bat which was lying nearby and began beating them, detectives said.

After he stopped wounding the bat, he told police he walked into the kitchen and turned on all three burners of a gas stove before fleeing.

'South of St. Louis', Technicolor Epic, Plays Here Sunday

Saenger's Feature Stars Joel McCrea

An action-jammed historical adventure yarn set in the lawless period of the Southwest, the Technicolor epic, "South of St. Louis," comes to the Saenger Theatre screen next Friday headed by a four-star cast including Joel McCrea, Alexis Smith, Zachary Scott, and Dorothy Malone. The picture is a United States Pictures Production, released by Warner Bros.

Besides the quartet of stars, Zachary Scott, and Dorothy Malone, Art Smith, Bob Steele, Monte Blue and Paul Maxey are featured. Ray Enright directed. Milton Sperling produced.

"South of St. Louis" was the nomad's land of the Old West. It was that vast area of Texas and the Southwest in which for the most part, the war was fought on a guerrilla basis, although there were organized army groups on the Mexican side. The film depicts the lawless, personal drama of three hard-riding men of the range, set against the violent background of the open spaces. Smuggling was rampant then, and the reckless tempo of the time made life exciting and dangerous.

McCrea plays Kip Davis whose purpose in the lusty tale is to restore the ranching land burned and pillaged by guerrillas in Union Texas. He is a cowboy, not a soldier, and his role is that of a flamboyant entertainer of the old west. As Kip, he is a completely new role, as he has from Texas and spent many of his younger years on a ranch. Miss Malone, completing the roster of stars, is cast as Deborah, who is loved by McCrea but who loves another.

Most of the film was shot on "location," at the Warner ranch in Calabasas, California, at Victorville and in the San Fernando valley.

Army Deserter Impersonates a Woman

Burtonwood, Eng., June 10 —(P) An air force court-martial convicted Delbert E. Hill today of desertion for his four-year absence as "Donna Delbert," girl fire-eater on the English music hall stage.

Hill, who told the court he left the air force just after being assigned to duty as a latrine orderly following Japan's surrender in 1945, was sentenced to serve two years at hard labor. He also was ordered given a bad conduct discharge. The airman, a 35-year-old Philadelphian, denied he was a deserter.

He said he always intended to come back to the air force, was merely absent without leave, and pleaded innocent to a charge of deserting in 1945 "to avoid hazardous duty."

The prosecutor, Captain George E. Koonz, told the court he won't prove that Hill left the air force in July, 1945, "with the intention not to return." This is a vital factor in proving a charge of desertion.

Koonz opened his case by introducing in evidence the clothes he said Hill was wearing when he was arrested at Newcastle last April 6. They were women's slacks, a light blouse and a pair of pink cotton panties.

Hill, in a shoulder length hairdo and plucked eyebrows, had been appearing in a Newcastle theater as Donna Delbert, demon fire-eater.

Miners Wonder When Strike Will End

Pittsburgh, June 10 —(P)—Most of the nation's 450,000 coal miners entered the pits today for the last full production day in at least a week, wondering when they would return.

President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers has ordered a cessation of mining for one week starting Monday to stabilize the industry. Since most miners are now scheduled to return to work, their 10-day paid vacation begins under the current contract. They'll get $100 each for that vacation—nothing for next week.

Now miners are wondering if something will happen to keep them idle during those five days.

There is also the possibility that many mine operators may not care to re-open their pits for the five day period. Once, down, mines require certain preparatory and inspection work before resuming production. Operators may stay closed and save doing those chores twice.

Another factor which adds doubt is the progress of contract negotiations.

Lewis' negotiations with the Southern coal operators have been recessed until Tuesday. The talks so far have accomplished little. Failure to sign a pact by the end of the vacation period is expected to bring on another walkout.

U. S. Steel corp. had agreed to start contract talks with the UMW Monday in Philadelphia. But since U. S. Steel, owner of extensive mining properties, in the past has refused to talk contract during a strike, the coal industry wondered if the negotiations would begin.

U. S. Steel said the question "has been under discussion, but no decision has been reached as yet."

The corporation employs about 20,000 miners and produces about 27,000,000 tons a year.

Socialist Governed England Pays Homage to Its King in Pomp, Splendor of By-Gone Day

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

This is an odd though likable old world of ours.

Socialist governed England paid homage to its king-emperor yesterday amidst the splendor and pomp of by-gone days.

The occasion was the celebration of his majesty's 53rd birthday — an event observed throughout the commonwealth and empire. For the first time since the outbreak of war in '39 London saw the traditional trooping of the colors — one of the most stirring and colorful of Britain's pageants.

King George, uniformed in scarlet and escorted by household cavalry rode through cheering lines of his subjects to the parade ground for the ceremony. There he took the salute of the royal guards in their scarlet and blue uniforms and tall bearskin head-dresses. A charming touch was added to the picture by Princess Elizabeth, heiress apparent to the throne, who rode a spirited horse side-saddle.

Well now, just how does all this imperial display fit in with socialism—or does it? Do we have an anomaly here—or don't we? Why this reverence of the king? I put the question to an Englishman in New York, and for a minute had him stopped.

"Why?" he said. "I never thought of it like that before. I guess it's because the king is the same to us as your flag is to you. He stands for the solidarity of our unwritten constitution, for liberty, for civil rights."

"Then personality plays a part. In the old days a monarch was honored because of his power. But things are different now. The monarch is outside politics. King George is liked for himself — he is a good fellow. And he has a grand family."

"And, of course, this royal pageantry is a fine 'show'. It fills a sentimental gap. I think you have to lump all these things together to understand why we like our monarchy."

We recently were given another reason why the king fills a useful place in the affairs of the British state. The great dominion of India, which received its independence August 15, 1947, announced that it intended to become a republic. As a republic it couldn't be a member of the British commonwealth of nations because they recognized the English king as their king.

This posed a momentous problem. The commonwealth didn't want to lose India, and India didn't want to leave, but republics don't have kings. However, in the commonwealth conference in London at the end of April someone had a brain-wave, and India agreed to accept the crown as "the symbol of the free association" of the independent commonwealth and, as such, the head of the commonwealth.

Thus the crown still continues to be the bond that holds the commonwealth together.

Actually 53-year-old King George was born on December 14, but a monarch's birthday traditionally is celebrated on June 9, because the weather is better then. Those who have encountered a December fog in London will understand.

The king's official birthday brings a half-holiday to many in England and in other parts of the empire and commonwealth. The commonwealth embassies in Washington closed for half the day, with the exception of the new Indian embassy, which shut down for the whole day. When an official from the British embassy mentioned this divergence to an Indian official, the latter replied:

"Yes, we are shutting down for the entire day. So we are twice as loyal as you are."

Investigation of Ice Box Deaths Closed

Little Rock, June 10 —(P)—Authorities have closed their investigation of the deaths of three children trapped in an old fashioned ice box near Walnut Ridge, Ark.

State Police Investigator H. R. Peterson said here he considers that the true story of the incident was told at Walnut Ridge Wednesday night.

At that time he announced that James (Buddy) Chesser, 10, told of imprisoning his three playmates in the box causing their deaths.

Yesterday the boy and relatives denied he had been responsible for the tragedy.

"As far as I'm concerned the case is closed," Peterson said. "We'll just write it off as an unfortunate incident."

He added he didn't see why young Chesser "would want to deny it."

Prosecutor Millard Hardin and Sheriff Joe Spades gave similar explanations.

The three children, ranging in age from two to nine, were found in the box last Friday. Two were dead; another died Saturday morning.

Two of America's Most Popular Motor Cars

Pictured above are typical examples of the two smart and separate lines of cars which bear the current imprint of Pontiac goodness—The Streamliner and the Chieftain De Luxe Sedan Coupes.

Each is in such demand that, on its own, it ranks among America's most popular cars today. That two cars of such decidedly different appearance should each enjoy such wide acceptance is easy to explain.

THEY'RE BOTH PONTIACS!

Both offer all the great basic Pontiac virtues. Both are conspicuously beautiful. Both carry the well-known promise of Pontiac quality—long life, dependability, and fine performance. Both afford the smooth, enjoyable performance of Pontiac's two great engines—the power-packed straight eight or its equally famous six-cylinder companion. And since both have Pontiac's exclusive Travelux Ride, both are notable for comfort.

And finally, both represent unusual values—a very fine product at a very low price. Either one you choose will make you mighty happy.
